New Portage Twp. Building To House EMS Equipment

* Continued from page 21

New EMS Equipment Building

The board directed Mr. Kohvakka to gather plans for a new building to house ambulances and other EMS equipment to open up space in the fire barn. The building could be 30 feet wide, possibly built so ambulances can drive through. It could be behind the EMS building, on a township-owned lot facing Davis Street.

The decision prompted firemen and members of the public to ask the board to consider building on a piece of township-owned property on Davis Street, which borders the western side of the community center parking lot. Suggestions were made to create a much larger building that would house local government offices, the EMS, and the fire department.

The board acknowledged that it purchased a piece of property for such a building in 2002. Trustee Mark Devereaux explained that it was done for a future project. As Curtis grows, a large building will be needed eventually, but he said he doesn't believe this is the time to do it.

Board members speculated that the cost of the structure would exceed $1 million.

The property was purchased because the township would have otherwise lost the opportunity to buy it, and board members knew that a larger building would be needed in the future, trustee Pat Abram explained.

Renovations to Fire Barn

The board voted to upgrade the electrical system in the fire barn and to insulate the building. Some volunteer labor is available for the work, and Pann Electric of McMillan has estimated the electrical work will cost $6,000.

Renovations to Township Offices

The doorway at the municipal government office building will be widened for wheelchair access and new plumbing will be installed in one of the last projects required for compliance with the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), as part of its agreement to provide grants and loans for new fire trucks. Two outdoor projects also remain.

Township Sewer System

Mr. Ferris reported that the township continues to seek funding for a sewer in Curtis. He emphasized that there is no project pending, however, there is widespread agreement in the township that such a system is necessary.

Curtis Elementary

As part of a continuing effort to make Curtis Elementary a charter school, Donna O'Grady reported that a grant application has been sent out and four applications were sent to organizations with the authority to authorize a charter school. Tahquamenon Area Schools has proposed closing the school.

Back-up Township Radio System

To protect a back-up radio system owned by the township, the board voted to seek bids for a permanent building to replace a simple plastic structure that houses it. The structure is falling apart.

Recreation Plan Stalled

The township's upgraded recreation plan is not acceptable by Department of Natural Resources (DNR) standards, Mrs. McDonald reported. The recreation committee recently updated maps and included in the plan suggestions made by residents regarding improvements to recreational facilities. The plan was submitted to the Eastern Upper Peninsula Regional Planning and Development Commission, which informed the township that it will need to provide more plan materials and hold more public hearings to qualify for state grants.

DNR grants are needed for such improvements as new fencing for baseball fields and resurfacing the tennis courts.
