County will line up with the other districts which are in favor of a closed season on deer. There are probably more hunters coming to this county than any other in the peninsula and the slaughter in this county is more apparent each season. At the present rate of slaughter it is not believed that the deer would last a great while.

Mackinac county has petitioned to the state game department for a closed season, but commenced proceedings too late to secure action this season.

From Mackinac Island: A number of Islanders are hunting, making their headquarters at the Holden-Benjamin camp on Pine river.

From Mackinac Island: The steamer John W. Gates, ore laden, and bound for Chicago, went ashore on Round Island about 10 o'clock Saturday night. The tug Favorite of St. Ignace and lighter Reliance of the Soo were called and after lightering a portion of her cargo the steamer was released Monday morning and proceeded on her way.

From Brevort: Jack, state driver, hasn't a bit of consideration for us fellows when it comes to removing the population. He's always bringing in lumberjacks and taking out the girls.

This time it's Miss Alice Sherman, a popular maid of Epoufette, who left Tuesday to spend the winter at Pittsburgh.

There's several young men at the aforementioned town, Epoufette, who are not wearing smiles but dejected expressions. Jack, you mean old thing.

George Litchard says he expects to put on the stage to Cedarville sometime during the coming week, or as soon as a good sleighing is assured for the season.

Apparently no sea or storm can scare out the residents of Cedarville and when they get ready to go they go, wind and weather notwithstanding. Tuesday Robt. Hamel brought over as passengers to this port from Cedarville Messrs. C. Hopkins and Wm. McLeod. They admitted that the sea was a "wee bit choppy, but that they had been out in worse."

But three days remain in which the deer hunter may legally fill his license.

The Holy Childhood Indian mission school in Harbor Springs, which appealed for heavy winter clothing for 100 pupils ranging in age from 6 to 14 years, received answers from many parts of Michigan, according to Willard Lambert, chairman of the Northern Michigan Ottawa association Unit 8.

Lambert said that after inquiring of Sister Mary Agneta, it was learned there is still a definite need for mittens, galoshes, school supplies, soap, tooth brushes and paste, towels and wash cloths.

The mission operates solely on donations,

Red Owl, established here in 1951 by Merle Lambertson, last week expanded its quarters in the McLachlan building near the post office.

The new quarters practically double its size, is completely modern, provides enlarged grocery and meat departments, each of which has a manager.

Gene Cheslak, 36, is the grocery manger. . . Oliver Rehn, 32, is the market manager.

Merle Lambertson, who started his grocery business here in 1948, joined the Red Owl organization three years later. As increased business warranted, he planned for the current expansion.

John Ruegg, owner of the Firestone store which occupied half the building of the original Red Owl, moved his store to the original location where it was founded by R. J. McLachlan, in Ray's Garage building. This made room for the Red Owl expansion. Mr. Ruegg has his store set up in attractive fashion and is occupying a large section of the garage building, permitting departmentalization of his large stock.

Abandonment of Graham Ave. from Lakeside cemetery to the bridge approach and from the west city limits to the bridge approach is being considered by the city council.

The Michigan Dept. of Conservation submitted a request for the abandonment in a letter read to the council in session Monday night.

"I think this request should be published before we take definite action one way or the other," said Mayor Raymond J. France after a brief discussion of the proposition.

The department said the abandonment was required to provide means of expanding the state park, which holds lands alongside that section of Graham Ave.

Mackinac Conservation club announced the opening of the 1960 membership drive at its meeting held on Thursday evening at the Legion Hut. Heading the drive are Arthur Pechta, club secretary, and Frank Cheeseman. All members are pledged to help and an all-out effort will be made to hit the 400 membership goal.

It was reported that more than 200 signatures were obtained on a petition to renew plans for the building of the wildlife sanctuary at Point aux Chenes. Charles Ryerse, president, told members that he had encouraging reports on the project and every effort will be made by state conservation officials to get the project underway this year.

Tourists spend a lot of money to eat.

In fact, research shows that 28 cents of every vacationing dollar spent in Michigan goes into food, according to Robert McIntosh, Michigan State University tourist and resort specialist.

For example, tourists bought 38 million dollars worth of food in the upper peninsula in 1957. That's about 28 percent of all they spend while on vacation here. So U. P. tourist income for the year totaled 140 million dollars one-fifth of the state total.

Within 25 years Upper Michigan may be "a huge and magnificent camp site" in summer, a hunter's haven in the fall, a winter sports paradise, and year-around reservoir of increasingly valuable timber resources.

This desirable future for the Upper Peninsula is foreseen by G. Robinson Gregory (Ph. D.), associate professor of resource economics at the University of Michigan, in a review of Michigan's forest-based industries.

Michigan has more than doubled the rate of state highway improvement in the upper peninsula during the past two years, state Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie reported.

"No single accomplishment in highway construction in Michigan can compare with the positive contribution of the Mackinac Bridge has had and will continue to exert on traffic development in the U. P.," he said.

In addition, Mackie said, the $11-million Houghton-Hancock bridge will speed the flow of traffic over the Portage ship canal. This bridge links picturesque Keweenaw county with the rest of Michigan.

The highway commissioner said the highway department will be ready to let contracts for the approaches to the proposed International Bridge at Sault Ste. Marie when the Bridge Authority

Happy Thanksgiving from Hiawatha Behavioral Health Board and Staff
Mental Health Matters! Healthy Tips for the Holidays
 1. Keep expectations for your holiday season manageable. Try to set realistic goals for yourself. Pace yourself. Organize your time. Make a list and prioritize the important activities.
 2. Be realistic about what you can do and cannot do. Do not put the entire focus on just one day (i.e., Thanksgiving Day). Remember it's a season of holiday sentiment and activities can be spread out to lessen stress and increase enjoyment.
 3. Save time for yourself! Recharge your batteries! Let others share in the responsibility of planning activities.
 4. Be aware excessive drinking will only increase your feelings of depression.
 5. Spend time with supportive and caring people. Reach out and make new friends or contact someone you haven't heard from in awhile.
Hiawatha Behavioral Health will be closed Thursday, November 26th and Friday, November 27th, 2009 So our staff can celebrate the Thanksgiving Holiday
